

What Are You Afraid Of?: Stories about Phobias

An excellent collection on a topic that holds a strange and fascinating allure. SCHOOL LIBRARY JOURNAL Everyone is afraid of something. But for those with phobias, that fear is exaggerated: the throat tightens; the heart races. The ten stories in this anthology all present people with debilitating anxiety from a gripping portrait of a teen with agoraphobia to a humorous tale of a boy who dreads his girlfriends cat. Whether the trigger is clowns, knives, string, or crossing the street, the characters in these stories confront, are confronted by, and sometimes even overcome their worst fears.
