

John, Paul, George, Ringo and Me: The Real Beatles Story

Liverpool-born author Tony Barrow worked beside The Beatles as the world-famous groups own public relations man through each exciting phase of their dazzling career in the sixties. His up-close-and-personal profiles of John, Paul, George, and Ringo probe their true personalities and reveal their amazing lifestyles as no other book has done. Barrow gives a devastatingly honest, powerfully authoritative, and absolutely credible eyewitness account of how his history-making clients acted in and out of the spotlight. Also published here for the first time is his astonishing collection of photographs, including candid snapshots taken in the sanctuary of dressing rooms and hotel suites from where press and paparazzi were excluded. Barrow watched the Beatles greatest gig of all at New Yorks Shea Stadium and, at Pauls request, he made a personal souvenir recording of The Beatles final concert at San Franciscos Candlestick Park. The author lets his quirky Liverpoolian sense of humor run all through the text because rock n roll was never invented to be taken too seriously.
