

Little Froggy Explores the Big World

Winner of the Word Guild Childrens Book Award Written by David Kitz Illustrated by Mircea Gabor So, how do you set limits for your child? Every parent faces this question. Little Froggy is about to hop out into that great BIG world, that your child too must face. Why not have your child hop out there with Little Froggy? He has a lot to learn. Together, they can discover one of the most essential lessons in life: obedience. And they can have a lot of fun doing it. So, why not come on along? Lets get hopping! Author Bio: David Kitz has worked with children for many years, as a parent, a teacher, and as a pastor. He first told The Little Froggy Story to his two-year-old son while working in Japan as an English Teacher. His love for drama and story telling are evident to all who have seen his one-man performances. Though born and raised in Saskatchewan, David now lives with his wife Karen in Ottawa, Canadas capital. They have two adult sons, Tim and Joshua. For more information about David Kitz, including his best-selling novel, The Soldier, the Terrorist & the Donkey King visit www.davidkitz.ca. Illustrator Bio: Award winning artist, Mircea Gabor, employed his creative talents to develop the watercolour illustrations that bring Little Froggy to life. For more than ten years his art has been bringing smiles and wonder to children and adults across Canada. Mircea Gabors paintings have been featured in art exhibits in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto. He is a graduate of the Fine Arts program at the University of Brasov in his native country, Romania. At present he and his family live in Kitchener, Ontario.
