

Get A Job In An Auto Body Shop Office

Finding a rewarding career that doesn't require a degree or experience is hard work. The collision repair industry has shown that it is recession proof and stable in any economy. Yet, a career in an auto body shop office is one of the most overlooked careers by job seekers today. As insurance companies are transferring more administrative duties to auto body shops, shop owners are in high demand for workers who can help process the claims and paperwork. Whether you see yourself working as a secretary, claims specialist, estimator, or production manager, there is a rewarding career waiting for you.
