

Manchild in the Promised Land. 1965. Cloth with dustjacket.

A forceful and honest book documenting life in Harlem. An auto biography of Claude Brown growing up in the society of a physical and spiritual slum-ghetto of Harlem. His story represents that of a whole new pioneering generation of Negroes who have entered, for the first time, the mainstream of American society as complete people, solid, determined, aggressive, hopeful. An American story, one that demonstrates the indomitable will of once-enslaved people, one that is universal in its suffering and triumph, one that has not ended.
